POI PLACES OF INTEREST

R. RAMLEE'S HOUSE

The restored house of Malaysia's movie legend, the late P. Ramlee, is located fittingly on Jalan P. Ramlee in George Town. This Malay kampung house where he was born in 1929 belonged to his grandmother. It has been furnished to resemble its original setting. Adjacent to the house is a gallery which is a tribute to his career spanning the 50s and 60s.
Tel: +604 281 7484

CHOWRASTA BAZAAR

Operating since the late 1800s, Chowrasta Bazaar is divided into several sections. In the front are stalls selling local products including pickled nutmeg, durian cake, medicinal oils and balms. The wet market is at the back with stalls selling fresh produce. The upper level is a treasure trove of shoe and clothes stalls, coffee shops and even secondhand bookstores.
Tel: +604 263 8818 (City Council of Penang Island)

CHEONG FATT TZE MANSION

The mansion's distinctive indigo-blue outer wall earns it the nickname 'The Blue Mansion'. Built in the 1880s by the wealthy Cheong Fatt Tze, the award-winning mansion is a combination of Su Chow Dynasty period architecture, English fittings and Art Nouveau stained glass windows, with careful attention to fung shui, the Chinese art of geomancy. The mansion also serves as a boutique hotel, offering a truly unique heritage experience.

PENANG STATE MUSEUM

Located on Farquhar Street in the city centre, the museum – together with the art gallery – was opened in 1965 with an emphasis on local history, art and crafts. The museum is divided into galleries dedicated to Penang's historical communities, as well as particular historical events. It also houses a fine collection of old photographs, maps, Chinese furniture, embroidery, costumes and other relics.

Website: www.penangmuseum.gov.my

CLAN JETTIES

The Clan Jetties are one of the last bastions of old Chinese settlements with enclaves of wooden stilt houses perched over the sea. With the construction of the quay in 1882, the waterfront was developed and settlements grew around these foundations. Gradually each jetty is identified with certain clans. The Chew Jetty is the largest and most well-known, with the most number of stilt houses and longest walkway as well as a temple.
Tel: +6011 6246 2884 (Clan Jetties Association)

STREET OF HARMONY

A short walk along Jalan Masjid Kapitan Keling, otherwise known as the Street of Harmony, demonstrates how the island's four main communities can coexist peacefully. At the northern end of the street is St. George's Church, the first Anglican church in Southeast Asia. Just minutes away is the Goddess of Mercy Temple, one of Penang's oldest surviving buildings dating back to 1800s. Visitors will also find the Sri Mahamariamman Kovil, the oldest Hindu temple on the island. Further along the street, the minaret and dome of the imposing Kapitan Keling Mosque rise above the rooftops.
Tel: +604 264 2631 (Penang Heritage Trust)

PENANG STATE ART GALLERY

The art gallery is dedicated to works of local artists and paintings of old Penang. Previously located within the Penang State Museum, it has now been moved to Dewan Sri Pinang. There are two galleries displaying a collection of permanent paintings at level 3 and a contemporary gallery on the ground floor. Various activities are held here throughout the year including forum, art talk, painting workshops and competition.
Tel: +604 226 1439
Website: www.penangmuseum.gov.my

PINANG PERANAKAN MANSION

Originally belonging to Kapitan Chung Keng Quee, the mansion has been restored and refurbished to its former glory to offer a glimpse of the typical opulent lifestyle of a rich Peranakan or Straits-born Chinese family as well as their many customs and traditions. With more than 1,000 pieces of artefacts, antiques and collectibles on display, the mansion itself is of eclectic design and architecture.

FORT CORNWALLIS

The history of Fort Cornwallis goes back two centuries to when Captain Sir Francis Light of the British East India Company first landed on the island in 1786. In order to protect the base from any foreign military forces and pirates, the Captain decided to build a fort, named after the then Governor General in Bengal. The fort is a preserved historical landmark within the George Town UNESCO World Heritage Site.

QUEEN VICTORIA MEMORIAL CLOCK TOWER

Located south of Fort Cornwallis, the Queen Victoria Memorial Clock Tower was commissioned in 1897 to commemorate the Queen's Diamond Jubilee. This gleaming whitewashed tower is topped by a Moorish dome, with four distinct sections featuring a working clock on each side. Although hardly noticeable, the clock tower leans slightly to one side due to the impact of bombs dropped around it during World War II.

D Dining

One of the main highlights of a trip to Penang is the food. While the island has its fair share of international restaurants and fast food outlets, it's local fare that has visitors coming back again and again. With stalls, food courts and coffee shops taking up space on practically every street, the complaint is that there's too much choice. You will be amazed at the sheer variety of Chinese, Malay, Indian and Nyonya cuisine vying for your attention. Don't miss delicious street food like asam laksa, hokkien mee, chee cheong fun, char koay teow, pasembor and mee goreng. You can also try delicious Peranakan or Nyonya food such as mee siam, otak-otak, enche kabin and kari kapitan. Equally delicious is nasi kandar, an Indian Muslim speciality. Seafood restaurants offering a wide variety of scrumptious dishes are found in abundance along the coastal areas of the island as well as the mainland.

GT Getting Here

Penang is accessible by air from other cities in Malaysia as well as other parts of the world on a number of airlines, including Malaysia Airlines, AirAsia and Firefly. The Penang Bridge links the island to the mainland of Peninsular Malaysia, and from there on major highways to the rest of the peninsula and up north to Thailand. Rail travel to Penang from either the south or north terminates at Butterworth. There are also ferry services from Butterworth to the island for passengers and motorcyclists, as well as ferry services between Penang and Langkawi.

GA Getting Around

Getting around Penang is easy. You can hop on public transport and explore the state by taxis, buses or trishaws. When taking a taxi, please ensure that the meter is switched on or agree on the price before you begin your journey. The Hop On Free Central Area Transit (CAT) takes visitors to George Town for free. Available every 15 minutes from 6.00am until midnight, it plies between the Weld Quay Jetty and KOMTAR, taking you to 19 stops within the city. You can also choose to travel the old-fashioned way and get on a trishaw and take in the sights at your own pace.
