A photograph of two women in traditional Sarawak attire, likely from the Iban or Melayu tribes. They are wearing tall, conical hats made of woven palm leaves, decorated with a red band and a fringe of silver coins. Their clothing consists of red and black sleeveless tops with intricate beaded patterns in yellow, white, and black. They are also wearing multiple necklaces of white and yellow beads, and several silver bangles on their wrists. The women are standing outdoors, leaning against a wooden structure, with a lush green background.
